Write a well-structured essay in response to ONE of the questions below. Use evidence from “A Good Man Is Hard to Find,” “A Lady’s Maid,” and “Done That, Never Been There” to support your answer.

1. Focusing on the sense of mystery in two short stories, in what ways do the discoveries connect to the stories’ theme(s)? What literary devices do the writers employ to reveal the unknown. When the unknown is exposed, what other issues arise? How do these determine the type of ending that each story has? (20 points)
2. Referring to morality in two short stories, discuss how each work defines goodness or badness. What makes characters, events or actions good, bad, both or neither? How do they help make each story’s dénouement plausible? (20 points)
3. How does point of view affect the way two short stories are told? What does the reader benefit from or lose through each narrator’s knowledge of what is happening in the plot? (20 points)
